Prologue

Our tale begins as the curtains close on the 19th century.

This evening is as ordinary as they come for London, England. Mist hangs thick, beclouding the radiance of the moon and modest glow of gas lamps.

Now, a word of caution, if I may: take care on the streets to-night. It wouldn't do for you to become the target of villains lurking in the shadows. Even Scotland Yard, the pride of our city, has yet to solve the many terrifying incidents that hide comfortably in its seediest corners.

Most, perhaps, would scurry away with this advice than stroll blissfully into a trap. You strike me as an unusual sort, however, so should you find yourself drawn to the unsolvable...steel your nerves, and see your case through to its end. Take solace in knowing that London is home to more than the purely unjust, for the just find their places amongst the likes of brilliant detectives and fearless gentlemen thieves.

The curtain may soon close on the 19th century, yes, but upon the resounding chime of Big Ben, a new tale of love and adventure like no other begins!

Herlock Holmes

Voice Actor: Chihiro Suzuki

Sherlock Holmes's Son & Successor

The son of London's most legendary detective. He takes after his father in many ways—his superior intellect being one, and his stubbornness being another. Herlock's proclivity for getting in the last word and mockery of others can grate on those around him, and though he is quite clever, he himself is unaware of the extent of his behaviour.

As he is a man of logic and reason, he disapproves of Lady Whiteley's more intuition-based approach, and he has no issue voicing as much.

William H. Watson

Voice Actor: Yusuke Shirai

Holmes Jr.'s Reliable Assistant

The son of Doctor John Watson, Watson is a man of action, often jumping headfirst into a situation no matter the danger.

This would normally be a cause for concern, but his reputable physical strength helps to counterbalance any difficulties that might come his way. He's also quite experienced in playing the sweetener to Holmes's bitterness, and because they have a nigh-unbreakable bond of trust, that's just fine by him.

He takes a liking to the heroine from the day they first meet, and he's always more than happy to help her.

Voice Actor: Masaya Matsukaze

The Man with Two Smiles

By day he's a meek, dangerously clumsy student by the name John Lupine, but by night, he assumes his true identity: Jean Lupin, Gentleman Thief. He revels in stealing countless treasures and has done well to live up to the master that his father is and more. Though pretentious once the sun goes down and the mask comes off, he does seem to be a man of good character at heart.

He also enjoys toying with Lady Whiteley as much as he enjoys thievery, and she has yet to decide if the pretty words he spouts upon their meetings ring false or true.

Data

Age: 17

Height: 174cm

Blood Type: AB

Destined

Jack Millers

Voice Actor: Masatomo Nakazawa

A Lonely, Cold-Eyed Assassin

A man of two sides like Lupin Jr., and yet not a man of two faces, for he remains withdrawn no matter the situation. His mannerisms and background as an East Ender have created a natural barrier with his schoolmates, who all perceive him as different—unfortunate, as there could be those nearby who would sooner think him misunderstood.

Or it could be he isn't misunderstood at all; though his identity remains unknown, he is none of other than the Ripper who terrorises London's streets. What brings him to commit these atrocities? Curiosity may grant answers, but it may also lead to Lady Whiteley's downfall.

Data

"He can do jest as he likes. It's not me concern."

Kenichirou Akechi

Voice Actor: Hiroaki Miura

A Marvellous Mind from the Far East

An exchange student and a brilliant detective in his own right, even if he has yet to reach the same heights as Holmes Jr. Though he is strict towards others, he is no-less strict towards himself, immediately taking up the position of class representative to further his studies whilst keeping a watchful eye over his schoolmates' behaviour.

To strive for betterment in both body and mind is the ultimate goal for him; yet he has still lived a sheltered life, having had no significant experience with women, and as such is oftentimes at a loss when interacting with them.
